

PRO CAB

Man reist nicht nur um anzukommen, sondern vor allem, um unterwegs zu sein.

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe

Whether you are aiming to cross offside or you are planning a scientific expedition: The mutually agreed combination of chassis, superstrucution and equipment of your vehicle is important for the success of your journey.

PROCAB is your partner in creating highly specialized vehicles with a wide range of services:

- Well-founded advice in great detail to your personal project
- Specially-tailored planning, concept-presentation and developments
- Professional construction of Individual- and Standard-GFK-superstrucutions
- High-class interiors
- Comprehensive body and vehicle construction
- Tuning of vehicle mechanics, vehicle technique and vehicle electrics.

In addition PROCAB supports you with a competent briefing and instruction to get familiar with your vehicle. That implies comfortable travelling in delight.

Many-sided, individual and demanding....

... is the PROCAB-product-range, which we coordinate to our circle of customers: adventurers, who want to get off the well-worn tourist paths, freelancers and self-employed persons with a passion for new travelling experiences, as well as teams of scientists, who plan expeditions in outlying regions with a reliable equipment.

Our core competencies are: individual, off-road motor homes made for difficult terrains, individual expedition vehicles and the Expedo- and Globo-collection.

Each vehicle is a custom made item – whether it is an empty cabin for a peculiar dismantling, partial accoutrements, an individual constructed vehicle or a fully furnished standard motor home (Expedo/GLobo).

All those vehicles have one thing in common:

- holistic correlation of chassis and construction
- appealing and commensurate design
- easy handling and a high-graded technical equipment
- livable and end-user friendly interior

The PROCAB-Team: Reliable expert-knowledge and mechanic Know-How for your expedition vehicle

PROCAB combines comprehensive knowledge and extensive experience with an enterprising passion: In the late 70's company PROCAB-founder and managing director Christian Jung already designed and constructed his first vehicles for his own scientific expeditions. His manifoldly experiences, gathered on journeys with sometimes a duration of several months, were the basis for the construction of the first PROCAB-Unimog in 1988.

The PROCAB-Team of today under the direction of Christian Jung is still working with the same passionate dedication and mechanic Know-How on your expedition vehicle: The PROCAB-Team covers each quality-profile. It is a team of experts, which consists of body-makers, electrical engineering, varnisher, metalworkers as well as mechanists, electricians and carpenters.

As a result these specific competencies enter into an overall concept for each expedition vehicle, which is characteristic for the whole range of PROCAB-models. Thus we make sure, that only high qualified and holistic designed vehicles are delivered, which specifically were constructed for your tour – practically experienced, safe and independent.

It all depends on the essentials....

This is the main guiding principle on which PROCAB-vehicles are developed and produced. For you that implies: You get reliable mechanic work, which is adjusted to your personal requirements without any High-Tech-appearances to express ourselves. Luxury has not the first priority on our work – but we are focussed to combine essential necessities with adequate comfort.

The PROCAB-vehicles are constructed in a close collaboration with you as our customer. So you can rely on the fact, that we implement your individual objectives into a demand-oriented product – weather an ordinary camper or a highly specialized laboratory and expedition vehicle. In this way we realize professional solutions, because while concentrating on the essentials we are able to create efficient vehicles, which exactly get those configurations, which are necessary for your personal purposes.
